HISTORY

ADDS

- HIST 3600 THE CARIBBEAN WORLD  4.0
The Caribbean World. This undergraduate course introduces students to conceptual, comparative, and integrative issues of Caribbean History by exploring the colonial period, the eras of revolution and abolition in the nineteenth century, and nationalist movements and immigration in the 20th century. Students will examine how the comparative legacies of colonialism, slavery, abolition, indentured labor, and independence influenced the regions’ contemporary culture and society. Special emphasis will be placed on issues related to politics, race and gender relations, cultural and intellectual production of national identity, and immigration, particularly in Cuba, Haiti, and Jamaica. There are no prerequisites for this course.

History of Ideas about Race. An interdisciplinary, comparative history of ideas about race, ethnicity, and human variation from the 17th century to the present, with emphasis on the social interactions, historical contexts, and social conflicts that produced those ideas. "Race" is primarily a Western historical construction, but the course also compares race with other systems for defining “natural” or “in-born” differences, such as ethnicity, religion, caste, or class. It also provides an insight into how the subjects of racial regimes viewed or challenged them from the inside.

- HIST 4845 THE BODY POLITIC  4.0
The Body Politic. Examines how the human body and political communities have been mutually constructed from ancient to modern times. Presents uses of the body in ancient Chinese and Greek cosmologies, in medieval European theology and medicine, and in Enlightenment and early modern Confucian political formulations. Particular and comparative focus on modern bodies and body culture in rhetoric and practice of modern nation- and empire-building (e.g., Herbert Spencer, muscular Christianity, muscular Judaism, physical culture, calisthenics, and ideologies of national strength and health.) Explores development and use of theoretical literature linking bodies and society.

- HIST 8065 HISTORY OF GEORGIA  4.0
History of Georgia. This seminar course offers an overview to some of the key currents and developments in Georgia history, from pre-colonial times to contemporary Georgia, as well as the relevant historiography.
